Clash Results When Police Force Way Through Pickets 11 ARE ARRESTED Picket Critically Hurt When Run Down by Automobile

Cleveland—(AP)—At least one man was killed and several persons were injured late today in a clash between strikers and workers at Republic Steel Corporation's Corbin-McKinney plant.

All available police squads were rushed to the plants, where rioting earlier in the day had dealt injuries to 20 persons, including 2 policemen.

Cleveland—(AP)—Steel strike violence broke out anew today. At least 20 persons were injured in rioting at Republic Steel Corporation's Corbin-McKinney plant in Cleveland; 11 were arrested.

Clashes occurred when police broke through CIO picket lines. Tom Glowacki, 51-year-old picket, suffered critical injuries when he was run down by a car containing four men who tried to enter the plant.

Two policemen were hurt. Some 1,000 strikers and sympathizers, witnesses said, massed around one of the approaches to the plant's main entrance. About 100 policemen, many on horses and motorcycles, attempted to clear a path.

At first only boys and cats called came from the crowd, but as more cars carrying non-strikers passed through the line, rocks flew from the strikers, police said.

Patrolman in Clash
In melee which followed, Mounted Patrolman Rowley Oker was hit in the back of the head. He remounted and charged a crowd of 300 on the sidewalk, witnesses said, bringing his night stick down on the head of a striker, Matibida Mnaous, 35, who collapsed under the blow.

After the violence, first here since Republic reopened its Cleveland plants July 6, the strikers marched on city hall in a mass protest against police action. Their ranks swelled and the milling crowd was estimated at almost 5,000 persons.

A committee of 15 carried a protest to Mayor Harold H. Burton. "I'll fill St. Alexis' hospital with you people today if you don't get out of here," James Quinn, financial director of the CIO Steel Workers Organizing Committee, quoted Police Inspector Martin A. Horrigan as saying. Horrigan denied making the statement.

One of those arrested was William Johnson, said by police to be the driver of the car which ran down Glowacki. Held for questioning, he said he lost control of his car when rocks were hurled breaking two windows, and that he then drove into the crowd surrounding him.

AWAIT CALL TO WORK
Pittsburgh—(AP)—Sixty-five hundred Pennsylvania and West Virginia miners awaited a call to work today as a 33-day-old strike in "captive" mines of two steel companies ended.

TAMMANY CHIEF DIES

New York—(AP)—James J. Dooling, Tammany hall chief, died of a stroke today at his home in Belle Harbor, Queens. Dooling, 44, had been in ill health for some time.

He was one of the youngest men ever to rise to leadership of Tammany. He had a stroke last winter and had numerous lesser ones in recent months.

His family was with him when he died. The funeral will be held Thursday from the home, and Memorial service will be held at Holy Cross church in New York.

Probes Poisoning Of 50 Persons in Concession Tent

Detroit Caterer to be Questioned About Possible Enemies

Detroit—(AP)—Prosecutor Vincent Fitzgerald of nearby Macomb county opened an investigation today of the poisoning of approximately 50 persons who ate food Sunday in a concession tent at the International Trapshooting tournament.

At least 11 victims required hospital treatment and several others attended privately by physicians were described as temporarily very ill.

Prosecutor Fitzgerald said he had summoned Walter Marony, Detroit caterer, and five of his employees and associates and would endeavor to learn first whether Marony "has any enemies."

The caterer operated a tented lunch concession at the Blue Rock Gun club grounds where the international shoot was held.

Earlier Case
Detroit police and health authorities cooperated with Macomb county officials in the investigation, having worked two months ago on a similar case involving the same caterer. One person died and 17 were made ill in the earlier case.

Dr. Don W. Gudakunst, deputy Detroit health commissioner, said the previous case involved a woman employee found to be an immune carrier of a tasteless bacterial poison (staphylococcus aureus). He said she had been treated successfully by the public health department for the American Medical society.

Planning Demand For Post Mortem
Attorney to Seek Examination of Body of Accused Boy's Uncle

Prairie du Chien, Wis.—(AP)—Carl N. Hill, attorney for 15-year-old Harold Best of Soldiers Grove, announced today he would make a formal court demand Wednesday for a post mortem examination of the body of Orin L. Shaw, uncle of Harold and his 11-year-old sister Mildred, who was slain June 4.

Hill said he would present to Juvenile Judge Jeremiah O'Neil a petition setting forth the opinion of a Madison specialist that Shaw's death, which occurred two weeks after the killing of Mildred, was caused by poison.

Hill said he would ask Judge O'Neil to order a hearing on the petition next Monday.

Judge O'Neil said earlier he would not issue an order to exhume the body until further evidence was shown to prove Shaw's death was not due to natural causes.

The judge's answer was given in reply to the advice of Dr. S. B. Pessin, Madison pathologist, who urged a post mortem examination of Shaw's body.

Pessin stated flatly that in his opinion poison produced the kidney ailment ascribed as the cause of death. Shaw was stricken at the girl's inquest and died shortly after in a Richland Center hospital.

Pay-Hour Bill Due Today on Senate Floor

Action on Measure First Step in Winding Up Current Session

LEADERS MAP PLANS No Decision on Other Measures to be Pushed, House Speaker Says

Washington—(AP)—Congressional leaders arranged today for immediate senate consideration of the wage and hours bill as the first step in winding up the session.

A bill by Senator McCarran (Nev.) to limit the length of flight train was at the top of the senate calendar.

Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky.) said, however, that if it was not disposed of by late afternoon he would have it laid aside for the labor standards measure.

The remainder of the legislative schedule which the administration wants congress to enact before going home was not disclosed.

Congressional leaders conferred this morning on the legislative situation. Speaker Bankhead said no decision had been reached on what items are to be pushed.

Bankhead added he could not see an adjournment of congress within ten days or two weeks.

Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky told the senate conferences with regard to congressional adjournment under way, but he could not yet discuss the legislative program in detail.

Confers With Roosevelt
He made the statement after being questioned by Republican leader McNary of Oregon, who has come out for an early adjournment.

Barkley discussed the legislative program with President Roosevelt during a weekend cruise. He said before the trip he thought legislation for low-cost housing, for plugging tax loopholes and for speeding up lower federal courts should be enacted.

There was no immediate word on his return as to whether his conversations with the president had brought any change in this list.

Senator LaFollette (P-Wis.), who was on the cruise, said he personally believed general farm legislation should be enacted.

Barkley expressed the opinion the wage and hour bill could be sent to the house in about three days. He indicated he would call up next the Wagner low-cost housing measure.

Wisconsin Senator Too Valuable for Court Job: Norris

Waupaca—(AP)—Senator George W. Norris, Nebraska Progressive, said yesterday he was surprised at the "70-20" vote by which the court bill was returned to the senate judiciary committee, but he added he believed there was a definite understanding that some judiciary reform measure will be enacted before the close of the present session.

Expect Early Action on High Court Vacancy

Senator LaFollette's Name Prominently Mentioned for Position

MANY POSSIBILITIES Appointment Likely to be Made Before End of Current Session

Washington—(AP)—The general expectation that President Roosevelt will fill the supreme court vacancy before adjournment of congress renewed speculation today over his possible choice.

The latest name mentioned in the capital was that of Senator Robert LaFollette (P-Wis.). The 42-year-old senator and his brother, Governor Philip LaFollette of Wisconsin, accompanied Mr. Roosevelt on a weekend cruise down the Potomac.

Nothing was said on their return last night to indicate whether a successor to Justice Van Devanter, who retired in June, had been discussed. The president told his press conference Friday that he had not yet considered the appointment.

Some persons suggested Governor LaFollette, as well as his brother, might be receiving consideration.

Others Mentioned
Many Washingtonians have expressed the belief Mr. Roosevelt might promote a federal circuit or district judge to the high court. Judges Sam Branton of New Mexico, Learned Hand of New York, and William Denham of San Francisco are among those mentioned.

The names of two Democratic senators—Wagner of New York and Logan of Kentucky—also have entered public discussion. Assistant Attorney General Robert Jackson, Solicitor General Stanley Reed, Chairman James M. Landis of the securities commission, and Justice Ferdinand Pecora of New York are others in the spotlight.

The senate must confirm the president's selection. There were unofficial predictions that he soon might have to send up one or two additional names.

Others May Resign
Repeated hints were given during the court bill battle that some of the older justices—Sutherland and Brandeis in particular—might leave the bench as soon as that issue was settled.

The senate sidetracked the bill last Thursday, and a judiciary committee is drafting a noncontroversial measure to speed up lower federal courts.

Committee members expect to send the legislation to the senate late this week. Little opposition is expected.

The bill provides for direct appeal on constitutional questions from lower federal courts to the supreme court; intervention of the attorney general in such cases, and in measure to speed up validity of a federal law.

Seize 2 Army Pistols In Search for Slayer
Providence, R. I.—(AP)—Police today pinned their hopes of a quick solution of the baffling Webster murder case on two grim-looking .45 army automatic pistols taken from a man in Bridgeport, Conn.

Bullets fired from the pistols will be compared with the two slugs which in the early morning hours of July 16 fatally wounded Dr. George W. Webster, society obstetrician, as he stood in the hallway of his home.

Bridgeport police held a man booked as John Bowers. Alias George Leon, 25, of New York city, in whose luggage Police Sergeant John Curry and the 45 caliber pistols were found.

Sergeant Curry said Bowers was arrested Sunday morning after firing three shots from a 32 caliber pistol through a restaurant window.

The victims, Charles Stefan, 32, Stanley Zielkowski, 32, and his wife, all of Chicago, were unable to explain the reason for the attack.

Jap Troops Hammering At Peiping Gate After Ultimatum to Chinese

Major Conflict Unavoidable in North China, Tokio Thinks

CABINET CONVENES War Minister to Deal 'Most Firmly' With Chinese, He Says

Tokio—(AP)—The Japanese government expressed fear today that a major conflict between Japanese and Chinese in North China now is unavoidable.

Emperor Hirohito called Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye, Foreign Minister Koki Hirota, Finance Minister Okinobu Kava and Field Marshal Prince Kotohito Kanin, chief of the army general staff, to an emergency conference on the situation.

Tokio took on a warlike atmosphere. Developments which followed the new outbreak of hostilities in the North China area were:

1. Konoye called the cabinet in emergency session.

2. War Minister General Gen Su-giyama told the cabinet it was his intention to deal "most firmly" with the Chinese.

3. The Japanese air corps started five-day war games designed to test Tokyo's defenses against air attacks.

4. The Japanese air corps started five-day war games designed to test Tokyo's defenses against air attacks.

5. Hurried preparations were made to pass an emergency budget measure in the lower house of parliament.

Premier Konoye will outline the government's stand in the crisis at a joint session of both houses Tuesday.

Government sources said a clash at Langfang had destroyed all progress toward peaceful settlement of the hostilities which started July 7.

See Attack on Peiping
Some observers here looked for the Japanese army to launch an attack on the ancient walls of Peiping in the struggle to establish Japanese claims to special economic privileges in North China.

Japanese officials previously had expressed fear that China's modernized air corps might attack the island empire.

The finance ministry estimated that the crisis since July 7 has cost the government almost $30,000,000. Of this sum, slightly less than $15,000,000 has been for the army, some $10,000,000 for the finance ministry and the remainder, with slight exceptions, for the navy.

The navy has been particularly vigilant all along the China coast since the reported kidnapping of a Japanese bluejacket at Shanghai.

The sailor, Sadao Miyazaki, was still missing more than 24 hours after his disappearance. His shipmates said Chinese sped away with him in a motor car after a street quarrel.

Townsend Tells Of Plan to Enact His Plan Into Law

3,000 Persons Hear Founder of $200-Pension Idea in Talk Here

A new move designed to bring about early enactment of the Townsend Recovery plan into law was explained by Dr. Francis E. Townsend, founder, at a joint meeting of the sixth, seventh and eighth congressional district clubs Sunday afternoon at Pierce park.

Circulations of petitions to be sent to the legislature asking that his pension system be adopted as an amendment to the constitution was the plan advanced by Dr. Townsend. He explained that this is a reversal of the usual procedure of having laws and amendments emanate from congress for ratification by the people.

He pointed out that under the constitution, which states that on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several states shall call a special session for proposing amendments, the people can demand such action.

Large Audience
Close to 3,000 persons, many of them enthusiastic Townsends from Milwaukee and Chicago, filled the pavilion at Pierce park to capacity to hear the talk.

Officers of the three districts said they were satisfied with the turnout and that the number of persons at the mass meeting probably would have been more than trebled had there been fair weather.

Proceeding the mass meeting the Townsend Eighth Congressional District board named Nat De-

Tenancy Aid Plan Soon to be Begun

Officials Expect to Launch Program Early Part Of Next Month

Washington—(AP)—Farm administration officials said today they hope to have the tenancy aid program under way early next month.

The name "farm security administration" has been selected tentatively for the organization in charge. Efforts will be made to get it operating soon after the return of Secretary Wallace, now on vacation.

President Roosevelt signed last week the bill authorizing the agriculture department to embark on a long-time program to turn nearly 3,000,000 tenant farmers into land owners.

The bill allows $10,000,000 this year for loans to tenants to purchase farms, $25,000,000 in the 1938 fiscal year and $50,000,000 annually thereafter. It also authorizes $10,000,000 this year and $20,000,000 each in 1939 and 1940 with which the department may purchase and retire from cultivation land unsuited for crops.

Tenants in southern and mid-western states will be the first to receive assistance, officials said, since the program will be begun in the states with the greatest population and the highest percentage of farm tenancy.

Selection of the individuals to be helped and the land to be purchased will be left largely in the hands of county committees of farmers familiar with local conditions.

New Clash Follows Air Attack on Division At Langfang

WAR 'INEVITABLE' Japanese Ultimatum Demands Withdrawal Of Chinese

Tientsin, China—(AP)—Japanese troops were reported to have attacked one of Peiping's gates to-night shortly after a Japanese ultimatum demanded that Chinese troops quit Peiping and its environs or face drastic action.

Reports of the new clash followed Japanese air bombardment of the 38th Chinese army division at Langfang, midway on the Peiping-Tientsin railroad.

The Chinese government central news agency declared in a Peiping dispatch that Japanese used machine guns and light artillery in the engagement just outside Peiping's walls.

Chinese defenders patrolling the wall called out reserves, opened the barred gate, rushed the report said. Chinese estimates the attackers numbered about 500, and said they came from Fengtai Japanese field headquarters southwest of Peiping.

Investigate Clash
Two Chinese and two Japanese army officers left Tientsin on a special train for Langfang to investigate the main Sino-Japanese encounter.

At Nanking, China's capital, the foreign press expressed indignation at the "Japanese attack." The capital heard reports that Chinese were taking up new positions and strengthening their forces south of Peiping, indicating there was no intention to bow to the Japanese ultimatum.

(The Japanese embassy concurred with Chinese officials in viewing the situation as "most grave," both factions professing to believe that "war is inevitable.")

At Langfang Japanese bombs and machine guns were believed to have taken a terrific toll of Chinese lives.

Reinforcements Arrive
Early this morning, after a battle had raged for several hours, Japanese reinforcements of men and planes arrived. Chinese officers said that 17 Japanese war planes subjected the Chinese Langfang garrison of about 1,000 troops to such punishment they were forced to withdraw after 12 hours.

Chinese casualties were believed several hundred. Japanese officially listed fewer than 10 dead.

Lieutenant General Kiyoshi Katsumi, commander-in-chief of the Japanese North China army, demanded of General Sung Chieh-Yuan, Chinese warlord in the Hopeh-Chahar district:

Japanese Demands
1. That all units of the 37th division of the 29th Chinese army withdraw southward to Changhsien from the Lukouchoa-Wanping-hsien area southwest of Peiping before noon Tuesday.

2. That all other 37th units now in Peiping or in the west barracks garrison withdraw west of the Yungting river by noon Wednesday.

Otherwise, said the Japanese general, there will be drastic punitive action by the Japanese army. Already, General Katsumi let it be known, all available Japanese strength was drawn up for such a punitive campaign.

General Sung, the Chinese warlord who commands both the 29th army and the Hopeh-Chahar political council, was reported without confirmation to have refused the Japanese ultimatum and to have ordered his men to fight.

Chinese positions at Langfang were reported blown to bits. Turn to page 12 col. 3

Unidentified Man in Iowa Resembles Alleged Minnesota Killer

Webster City, Iowa. — (AP) — Sheriff J. L. O'Malley said today an unidentified man in a hospital here may be Jens Thompson sought in connection with the slaying of three Austin, Minn., brothers.

Sheriff O'Malley said the man was found floating along the roadside near Homer, Iowa, 12 miles southwest of here.

The sheriff and Miss Jane Belknap, superintendent of the hospital, said a photo of Thompson compares "quite favorably" with the patient here.

At Glenview, Minn., Saturday, a coroner's jury named Thompson as the man who killed Louis, Joe and Arthur Lukes while they worked in a harvest field Thursday.

Sheriff O'Malley said the patient here was found by Frank Vitor, who said the man told him he lived in Webster City.

At the hospital, however, the sheriff said, the man said his name was Samuel Douglas of Wisconsin, and later said he lived in California.

Hospital attendants said the man was "badly sunburned" and appeared to have been "overcome with the heat."

Removal of Dam at Crystal River Outlet Lowers Water Level in Lakes

Waupaca. — In the last fortnight the Chain of Lakes water level has fallen so rapidly as to impede the marine mail service to cottagers and to prevent motorboats from passing through channels connecting several lakes. This condition was caused by the removal of the WPA dam at the mouth of the Crystal river, the outlet of the chain. The dam was ordered to be removed at a public hearing in the courthouse June 19. Lake property owners and boatline operators were not informed of the meeting, and consequently there were few present when the fishway dam was abolished. The abolishing of the dam was proposed by E. # State Democrats Make Plans for Fall Campaigns

Reelection of Senator Duffy Will be One of Chief Aims

BY JOHN W. WYNGAARD Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison. — Diplomatically remaining in the background while the political tempests raged over President Roosevelt's court plan, the state Democratic party organization will begin to function again with the death of that issue.

Beginning Tuesday, when Postmaster General James A. Farley, national Democratic chairman, will visit Wisconsin to confer with high party moguls, the state organization will begin a campaign which will have several aims, among them reelection of Senator F. Ryan Duffy of Fond du Lac and the evacuation of the collar berth which the party now holds in state political rankings.

With Farley, C. E. Broughton, national committeeman, Mrs. George Givan, national committeewoman, James Corcoran, state chairman, John Slocum, state committee secretary, and James Cavanaugh, head of Wisconsin Young Democrats, will meet in Milwaukee Tuesday to map plans for activities this summer and next fall.

Young Group Active According to Slocum, who maintains the party headquarters here, the bulk of the work this summer will be handled by the Young Democratic organization, recently reorganized with the assistance of the regulars. Picnics throughout the state will be held, beginning immediately, he said.

All the state Democratic chiefs are anxious and determined that Senator Duffy shall be returned in the 1938 elections. To date the campaigning has been inactive because of the factional nature of the supreme court fight and Senator Duffy's non-committal attitude on the president's court proposal.

Some Democrats claim to have knowledge that the president has assured Senator Duffy of his support in next year's campaign, despite his friendliness with the Progressives, who are also laying plans for entering a strong candidate in the senatorial race.

Member Drive In the meantime the Young Democratic organization will make strenuous efforts to increase its membership, and will work hand in glove with the regular party committees. Since the recent state convention when the state central committee showed its hand plainly in the nominations and elections, the Young Democratic organization has become in effect a branch of the regular party.

While reports of fusion sentiment run riot in capital circles, they are discounted in Democratic headquarters here. The party leaders will make no move to align with the Republicans against the LaFollette party until there is a convincing rank and file demand for such action, Slocum explained. Little may be expected in that direction until fall, he said.

Several legislative leaders of the Democratic faith, however, are loud in their hopes that the two old parties will join hands to defeat the Progressives. Among them are Senators Joseph Clancy of Racine and Harry Bolens of Port Washington.

Dewey, Racket Nemesis in New York City, Terrorizes 'Big Shots' of Underworld

BY ROGER D. GREENE New York. — (AP) — "Guilty! . . . Guilty! . . . Guilty! . . ."

One hundred and eighty-two times, the voice of Jury Foreman John M. Heaton called out the verdict on the seven men at the bar — defendants in New York's $2,000,000-a-year restaurant shakedown racket.

Slowly, their cynical smiles faded. Their heads dropped. They sobbed. They shouted hysterically. "I'm not a racketeer. I'm a respectable business man. I've got a wife and family!" They tried to shield their faces, swore and struggled. Bailiffs bore them off to prison.

City Applauds Triumph That was last March 26. The city applauded another climatic triumph in 35-year-old Thomas E. Dewey's meteoric career as special rackets prosecutor in the city of New York.

It was a climax, but not the finish.

Quietly, Dewey went back to work — as quietly as his distant cousin, Admiral George Dewey, on the morning of May 1, 1898, spoke the historic words aboard the battleship Olympic in Manila bay: "You may fire when ready, Gridley."

In his sound-proof, closely-guarded headquarters on the fourth floor of the Woolworth building, in downtown Manhattan, young Tom Dewey directed his staff of 40 aides in gathering new evidence.

Then, when ready, he "cracked down" again and again, without warning, striking fresh terror into the "invisible empire" of organized crime — aimed not alone at the flash gang-type criminal but also at the mild-looking racketeers who like to think of themselves as "respectable" and not as blood-sucking leeches preying on legitimate business to the tune of more than $100,000,000 a year in New York city alone.

Hesitated About Career A one-time "printer's devil" in his father's country newspaper shop at Owosso, Mich., then a graduate of the University of Michigan, class of '23, Tom Dewey came to New York undecided whether to be a singer or a lawyer. The law won.

He entered Columbia university and two years later emerged with a bachelor of law degree. In 1931, he was appointed assistant United States attorney, and that same year saw him plunge into the investigation of a $100,000,000 ring of really racketeers who bilked victims from coast to coast.

He was taking an interest, too, in the financial affairs of a hulking, surly-tempered plug-ugly known as Arthur "Dutch Schultz" Flegenheimer.

Uncover Big Deposits Investigating the Dutchman's income and tax payments, Dewey found the beer baron had deposited $350,000 in the last six months of 1930 — at the rate of $32,900 a week or about $5,500 a "working" day — without paying Uncle Sam a nickel.

Dewey was also appearing in court against a pale, perspiring, cold-eyed little figure known as Jack "Legs" Diamond, who at that time had already survived three gun-fire attacks and had gained the sobriquet of "the clay pigeon of the underworld."

The youthful prosecutor won a four-year prison term conviction against Diamond, but "Legs" appealed and gained freedom on bail, only to die in a blast of Tommy gun slugs in Albany, Dec. 18, 1931.

In 1933, Dewey turned the heat of income tax investigation on Dutch Schultz, the notorious Waxey Gordon, Ciro Terranova, the "artichoke king," and Terranova's successor, Joe "Muskie" Castaldo, who harvested more than $9,000,000 in three years by cornering the artichoke market.

He got an indictment charging Gordon with defrauding the government of taxes on $1,526,890 for the two-year period 1930-1931.

Waxey "lammed" into hiding, and Dewey was confronted by a series of death-silenced witnesses — no less than four men murdered to seal their lips from testifying against the fugitive Gordon.

It was apparent that the only way to stop the murders was to get Gordon.

Dewey got him, capturing him at his Catskill hunting lodge — a ludicrous figure, snoring open-mouthed, with a revolver under his pillow.

If Dewey was shy on witnesses, he had all the facts. He had amassed 6,000 documents — checks, ledgers and bank accounts — and the jury convicted Gordon in 40 minutes, on four counts of conspiracy and evasion of federal income taxes. He was sentenced to 10 years in prison.

The underworld now began to get jittery about this brown-eyed,

Appleton Looks Like a City Built in Woods-- From Top of Water Tower

BY VIOLA HELLERMANN The Appleton citizen who thinks it would be fun to climb to the top of the water tower and see what his home looks like from that vantage point would probably be disappointed—at least as far as his home is concerned. He could see the steeples and smokestacks of Neenah and Menasha and water towers and chimneys in Little Chute, Kimberly and Kaukauna as he walked around the tank up there, but his home, unless he lived only a block or two from the tower or in the new section of town out Oklahoma street way, would probably be buried beneath trees. Appleton looks like a city built in a woods in the panorama that stretches for miles around one. In some sections there is nothing but a church steeple raising its head above the green leaves to show that there are streets there at all. It must look like a haven to birds.

Report Increase In Resources and Deposits in Banks

Madison. — (AP) — State department reports of an era of business prosperity in Wisconsin mounted today with an announcement from the banking commission of a large increase in the resources and deposits of state banks so far this year.

The condition of the banks as of last June 30 showed an increase of $13,383,178 in resources during the last six months and a $12,157,302 boost in deposits, the commission said.

Last week the state industrial commission reported that factory employment and pay rolls during April, May and June were higher than for the comparable months of 1932.

Taxes Increase The state income tax division announced a 65 per cent increase in income tax collections and the treasury department reported that gasoline and beverage taxes (beer and liquor) were up $1,500,000 during the first half of the year.

The banking commission also noted a healthy business condition in an increased demand for loans, which were higher by $9,327,170 than the loans and discounts reported of last December.

The following figures show the change in the condition of banks, the first is that of June and the second that of December: resources, $469,524,011, $456,140,833; deposits, $395,410,188, $383,410,188; loans and discounts $143,052,529, $134,735,357.

The banks in the last six months have boosted their investments in government securities from $83,715,440 to $89,632,582, an increase of nearly $6,000,000.

The larger volume of deposits, loans and discounts was about equally distributed between city and country banks.

Commissioner H. F. Ibach said that since December state institutions owing money to the federal government have paid off $940,000 of debentures.

Village Marshal Nabs Suspects in Robbery

Whitehall, Wis. — (AP) — Village Marshal Cliff Ford, fired at with a .38 caliber revolver, captured two men yesterday when the gun failed to discharge.

The men were turned over to Sheriff Martin Brom of Trempealeau county, who said they would be charged with stealing a car at Osseo.

The car is alleged to have been used in a tavern holdup early Saturday in which the bandits took $46 in cash, overlooking $800 which Rex Thompson, proprietor, dropped to the floor to be picked up and carried off unseen by a pet bulldog.

Seismologist Reports 'Violent' Earthquake

Cleveland. — (AP) — Father Joseph Joliat, John Carroll university seismologist, reported today a "violent" earthquake occurred at 11:45 p. m., central standard time, in the Pacific 2,000 miles west of the Mexican coast. It was 400 miles below the earth's surface and was recorded on the university's instruments for a half hour, he said.

Stiehl Urges Stock Be Kept Off Highways

A plea for extra precautions to keep untended livestock off the highways was made today by Capt. Charles J. Stiehl of the county motorcycle police. He also suggested that only persons capable of controlling the animals be permitted to move livestock on or across main traveled roads. Farm animals wandering on a highway at night often are difficult to see and serious accidents may result, Stiehl said.

Badgers to Fight Attempt to Divert Michigan Waters

See Plan as Distinctly Harmful to St. Lawrence Seaway

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington—The Wisconsin delegation is preparing to fight a proposal recently put before the house of representatives seeking to legalize a diversion of water of 5,000 cubic feet per second from Lake Michigan into the Chicago and Illinois rivers. They see in it a proposal which they claim would be distinctly harmful to development of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway.

While the alleged purpose of the measure is to improve the navigability of the Illinois Lake-Gulf waterway, Wisconsin members of the house declare there is no justification for the bill and promise that it will be opened by all those who have for years been fighting for the seaway.

Hits Sanitary District
Representative George J. Schneider, only member from Wisconsin on the rivers and harbors committee and an expert in that type of legislation as well as an ardent supporter of the seaway, has gone into the situation carefully, and blames the Chicago Sanitary District for the pending legislation.

Action, started years ago in the federal courts to stop the unlawful diversion by the Chicago Sanitary District of the Lake Michigan waters, had the support of public spirited citizens and officials of Wisconsin and other states.

After more than 20 years of litigation, their efforts were successful. The supreme court issued a decree limiting the diversion. The present diversion of 5,000 cubic feet per second cannot continue after Dec. 31, 1938, unless congress passes a bill to legalize it. After that date, unless such a bill becomes law, the diversion will have to be reduced to 1,500 feet as decreed by the supreme court in 1930. Before the decision of the court, diversion ran as high as 10,000 feet per second. The court held this must be reduced because it was injurious to commerce and also expensive to the government.

Build Locks, Dams
Construction of locks and dams on the Illinois river will be completed by 1939, according to the army engineers, who report that after that date, a diversion of 1,500 cubic feet will be ample for navigation.

"Therefore," declared Schneider, "the claim that a diversion of 5,000 cubic feet is necessary for protection of the Illinois Waterway is entirely without foundation."

Schneider launched an attack against Chicago interests led by former Mayor Hale Thompson. "It is evident," he declared, "that the real reason why the Chicago interests headed by Thompson are so anxious to continue the present diversion is that the Chicago Sanitary District wants to keep on using this water to slush the sewage of the city of Chicago down the Chicago and Illinois rivers instead of providing modern disposal facilities."

Sees Sordidness
"The sordid and corrupt record of the Chicago Sanitary district is well known. Its stench still remains in the nostrils of honest people who know of its long history of corruption and graft. However, we cannot be unmindful of the danger of this special privilege element in its attempts to usurp the rights and property of others," he added.

Declaring that Congress has previously defeated proposals to legalize unnecessary diversion by Chicago and Illinois of the waters of Lake Michigan, Schneider said: "It is to be hoped that this latest attempt to place an obstacle in the path of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway development will also fail, and that the way will be paved for early ratification by the United States Senate of the treaty with Canada for construction of the waterway."

Group to Plan County's Part in State Dairy Day

Plans for Outagamie county participation in the Dairy day program of the Wisconsin State fair at Madison Aug. 27 will be outlined at a meeting of representatives of the dairy interests within the county at the courthouse Tuesday evening. R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent, announced today.

A dairy day committee from the county, including not only persons actually in the dairy business but also citizens who are well known and have the interest of the dairy industry at heart, will be named at Tuesday's session.

Duffy Must Find Out What Size Hat Jim Farley Wears

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington—Senator F. Ryan Duffy of Fond du Lac, whose good nature and extra-senatorial duties have made him practically a jack-of-all-trades, has had a new task set him. He has to find out the head-size of Postmaster General Jim Farley.

Farley's proposed visit to Wisconsin is apparently causing much excitement. When he spends the night at LaCrosse, July 26, preparatory to crossing the state the following day to dedicate a postoffice at Oconomowoc, several affairs will be held in his honor.

In addition to a banquet and a breakfast planned for him, a group of LaCrosse residents are planning to present to the genial postmaster general with a plug hat—the same type of headgear which distinguishes the donors as a group.

Duffy is now using his senatorial influence to learn Farley's head-size so that the hat to be given him in LaCrosse will not flop down over his ears or sit at too jaunty an angle on his famously bald head.

Provide Truck for Campers' Baggage

Transport Luggage to Make Additional Room In Cars

A truck will be provided to transport baggage to Onaway island, Y.M.C.A. camp for boys. C. C. Bailey, boys' work secretary and camp director, said today. It is more convenient to leave baggage at the Y.M.C.A. building and accommodate more campers in private cars, Mr. Bailey said.

The truck will leave about 1:30 Thursday afternoon, July 29 for Waupaca. Boys to Onaway island are to leave Edmund's landing at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. All boys are required to undergo physical examinations before entering camp in an effort to prevent a contagious disease being carried into the group of boys, Mr. Bailey stated.

The final meeting for leaders will be held at 7:30 Tuesday evening at the Y.M.C.A. building when camp routine and recreational programs will be discussed. There will be one man over 21 years of age for every 10 boys in camp, according to Mr. Bailey. About 65 registrations have been received and application blanks may be secured at the Y.M.C.A. Camp dates are July 29 to Aug. 12.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD BLAKESLEE
New York —(U)— The strangest thing known to man is his own brain.

Take "word deafness." It's meaning is shown by 17 persons with brain tumors, described by Earl C. Chester, M. D.

All these persons knew perfectly well what a key is, also a pencil, a penny, a match box, scissors and comb. They could use a match box, key, comb or any of the others.

But if you said "key" they could not pick a key out of a lot of other objects. They couldn't say "key" nor any of the other familiar names. They merely would make queer sounds when they tried to speak those names.

What happened, so far as medicine is able to judge? In each of the 17 the tumor pressed on and interfered with part of the gray matter. This part was in the "dominant" side of the brain. That is, it was on the opposite side of the head from the hand the person preferred to use.

graded school teachers will be held at the courthouse Aug. 27, it was announced today at the office of Henry Van Straten, superintendent of schools. A meeting of novice teachers will be held on the preceding day and schools will open for the 1937-38 term Aug. 30.

Wilkie Elected Head of Rainbow Vets Association

Appleton Men Selected as Officers of Division At Reunion

Paul Wilkie, Appleton, was elected president of the Wisconsin association of the Rainbow Veterans division at the annual reunion at High Cliff park Sunday afternoon. Wilkie, former vice president, succeeds Larry Wilson, Fond du Lac, who automatically becomes an honorary president.

Conrad Pfaffenroth, Oshkosh, was named vice president. E. E. Lutz, Appleton, secretary. Henry Vogt, Fond du Lac, treasurer. Wilkie was re-elected as state historian. The group chose Oshkosh as the 1938 reunion site.

"There is more autocracy in the world now than in 1917 and the very countries we fought for to make the world safe for democracy are now bowing their heads to dictators," Herbert H. Helble, Appleton High School principal, declared in a brief address to the veterans.

Preserve Constitution

"Five principles of American government, free speech and assembly, free press, right to free religious worship, free public school system and rights of private property, characterize our American democracy and we must continue to fight to preserve it and our constitution," Mr. Helble continued.

Lothar G. Graef, honorary president, was presented with a medal by Mr. Helble on behalf of the state association for his years of service to the division. Mr. Graef said various groups were attempting to undermine the American government and it was the duty of patriotic organizations to combat their advancing forces.

National Reunion Report

Wilson, the retiring president, reported on the national reunion at Columbus, Ohio, and said a resolution was adopted practically unanimously condemning communism, Hitlerism, fascism and other "isms" except Americanism. He said the national association would endorse chapter auxiliaries and sons and daughters organizations to perpetuate the work of the Rainbow division.

He said the 1938 national reunion city would be St. Paul, the 1939 site would be New York and the reunion would be held in Oshkosh, Fond du Lac or Appleton in 1940. He said a chapter was now being organized in Milwaukee and the group voted to send delegations from the other state chapters to install the group when organization is complete.

Games and contests featured the day's program which was attended by about 300 veterans and their families from Appleton, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Menasha, Kaukauna and Milwaukee.

Financial Outlook Shows Marked Gain In Most States, Survey Indicates

Chicago —(U)— From state capitals of the nation came reports today of mid-year audits showing marked improvement in government finances.

Most state treasurers found that not only were operating budgets out of the "red," but substantial trimming was under way in bonded indebtedness that reached the staggering total of almost three billions in 1929.

Tax collections shooting upward with the rising curve of business was the principal reason advanced for the brighter financial picture.

The Oregon treasury showed a $13,000,000 balance, largest in history. Arkansas's was above $10,000,000 and a bond refinancing program was in progress. California sliced its operating deficit by $17,000,000. Illinois had a $66,000,000 treasury balance and had cut its bond obligations $28,000,000 in three years.

These were typical of the bright spot revealed in the Associated Press survey comparing current statements with peak deficits.

Emergency Needs

Despite bond retirement programs in many states, issues outstanding were at higher levels in some states because of highway and building construction and emergency projects brought on by depression needs.

California issued $44,000,000 in relief and $30,000,000 in veterans' welfare bonds, boosting its current total outstanding to $193,000,000 against $121,000,000 in 1929. The state's general fund deficit dropped, however, from $43,000,000 to $26,000,000.

Louisiana's $150,000,000 debt was up approximately $35,000,000 from 1929, following sale of $90,000,000 in highway bonds.

Minnesota's current debt was $134,000,000, up $48,000,000, and Mississippi's stood at roughly $48,000,000, up five millions in the face of a $42,000,000 highway issue.

Missouri issued $74,500,000 in bonds for roads and buildings, raising its bond obligations from the 1929 figure of $70,000,000 to $115,600,000.

Most of the states showed slight but steady debt reductions with finance officers speaking hopefully of complete retirements.

Retiring bonds was no problem in such states as Nebraska, Indiana, Florida, Ohio, Wisconsin and Connecticut, where they are regulated by law.

Confer on Proposed Rerouting of Highway

Senator Mike Mack, County Highway Commissioner F. R. Appleton, J. J. Plank, chairman of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce highway committee, and Kenneth Corbett, chamber secretary, will meet this afternoon at the chamber office to confer on the proposed rerouting of Super-Highway 41 west of the city.

The conference was called as the senator and highway commissioner will be unable to attend a meeting of the chamber's highway committee Wednesday afternoon on the matter. A hearing on the proposed change is to be held Friday at the court house by the state highway commission.

Postmaster General James A. Farley headed into Wisconsin today for a 2-day goodwill visit of cities in the southern part of the state to be climaxed Tuesday night by a banquet at Pfister hotel, Milwaukee.

Although many leading Wisconsin Democrats are expected to attend the dinner few, if any from Appleton will be present. A convention of Wisconsin postmasters opening Tuesday at Superior is in conflict with the Milwaukee meeting.

Farley was to arrive in Prairie du Chien late today from Minnesota to address the annual convention of the Wisconsin Rural Letter Carriers association, and will spend the night at LaCrosse. Accompanied by postoffice officials and state Democratic leaders, he will cross the state by automobile tomorrow, included in the itinerary is a stop at Oconomowoc to dedicate the new $80,000 post office.

Three Arraigned on Charges of Larceny

Three rural youths, Harold Harverson, 22, Dan Halverson, 17, town of Freedom, and William Van Handel, 24, town of Grand Chute, were arraigned in the municipal court of Judge Thomas H. Ryan this morning on two counts of larceny. They waived preliminary examination and were released on bond of $250 each pending trial Aug. 16.

The three young men, arrested Sunday morning by motorcycle patrolman Jack Frenkel, are accused of taking about $40 from the Sheldon Stammer tavern, Apple Creek, July 5 and about $15 July 23.

They were moved to McAllen two years ago. The funeral was held Sunday.

LAERN FUNERAL

Funeral services for Emma Laehn, 413 N. Richmond street, who died Thursday evening, were held Saturday afternoon at the Koh Funeral home with the Rev. Theodore March in charge. Burial was in Riverside cemetery.

Fire Destroys Farm Residence

Believe Spontaneous Combustion Started Blaze At Waupaca

Waupaca—Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the Oliver Dickinson farm home in the town of Dayton, eight miles west of Waupaca, about 9 o'clock Saturday night. The house, one of the finest in that locality, was owned by Mrs. Al McCrossen, daughter of the late Mrs. Dickinson, but had been unoccupied for the last two years.

The loss, estimated at $4,000, is thought to be partly covered by insurance. Although the origin of the blaze is undetermined, it is thought that it might have occurred as the result of spontaneous combustion in the attic. Neighbors commented that they noticed an airplane, flying low, pass over the house about 15 minutes before the fire was discovered.

The fire was first noticed when neighbors saw the roof ablaze. By the time they reached the house it was impossible to save the building or any of its furnishings. Because the wind was in the opposite direction, the barn across the road did not catch fire.

Although the house was unoccupied, Al McCrossen was working the farm went there every day to prepare his meals.

Carnival Employee Is Placed on Probation

Arrested at Appleton where he was employed by a carnival company, Geoffrey Kopitz, pleaded guilty of abandoning and failing to support his wife and two minor children when he was arraigned before Circuit Judge C. F. Van Pelt at Fond du Lac Saturday. He was placed on probation for one year. Kopitz alleged his wife knew he was planning to join the carnival and that he had given her $5 and sent an additional $20 by messenger before he left. Mrs. Kopitz said she never received the $20.

Miss Dorothy Blob, 1408 S. Jefferson street, submitted to an operation at St. Elizabeth hospital today. Her condition was reported as "good."

Summer Outlook Better Than Normal; Top Farm Income Since 1929 Is Seen

World war period have farmers been as prosperous as today.

In the immediate phase, some of the outstanding "prosperity items" are:

Profits for the first 50 companies reporting second quarter earnings were more than 21 per cent above the comparable period of 1936. Heavy industry, steel and rail equipment showed the widest gains.

The production of electricity a week ago reached the highest point on record.

Steel Production Grows

Steel production was well ahead of last year, with independent companies catching up on their unfilled orders after the easing off of strikes and labor troubles.

The scrap steel dealers, who have uncanny success in anticipating the future of steel production, have raised the price of scrap twice within a month.

The volume of unfilled orders in the machine tool industry, approximating 1922, indicated manufacturers were filling their needs for new equipment.

Inventories generally were lower, pointing to widespread need of the replacement of stocks.

The stock market still watched the Washington news as closely as ever, even though brokers felt less pessimistic than before last week's developments politically. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at the close of trading Saturday stood at $70.10, compared with $67.90 a year ago.

Peak in March

The market reached its peak for the year in March, with the average at $75.50, and then fell to the year's low of $62.60 on June 28. Since then, the long-range trend has held upward.

The June drop was at the peak of labor troubles, and also a time when Washington developments were less to Wall street's personal liking.

For the consumer, the prosperous era probably will bring a further increase in living costs. Rents are up for fall leases, and merchandisers expect another price rise in the coming months.

Economists in the financial community still talked with their usual emphasis of a balancing of the budget as a requisite for any long-term prosperity.

suffered injuries to his back and one hand and possible internal injuries the extent of which had not been determined this morning.

McGlin, who, with Orville Johnson, operates the farm of Mrs. Davis Law, Maple Creek, was returning after a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William McGlin, and was driving a new car owned by Johnson. The machine was demolished.

Melvin Roloff, New London, and four companions, escaped with minor scratches and bruises about 1:30 Sunday morning when Roloff's car blew a tire at the intersection of Highway 10 and County Trunk D south of New London and swerved into a row of parked cars near the Golden Slipper tavern. The Roloff car and parked automobiles owned by Marvin Reickman and Allan Kaufman, Dale, were damaged, according to police.

With Roloff were Dorothy Kable, Sarah Koplein, Clifford Hutchings and Claude Hiedde, all of New London, the police report stated.

Motorcycle Crashes

Gordon Steinko, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Steinko, 422 E. Pine street, New London escaped with his life about 6:30 Saturday morning when a motorcycle he was driving at an estimated 60 miles an hour left the concrete on the cemetery road southwest of New London and landed upright in the ditch after turning over three times, according to eye witnesses.

The unconscious youth was taken to Community hospital where he was treated for painful bruises and scratches to the left leg and arm and a knockout blow to the right eye. He helped himself into the car when he was taken to his home after regaining his senses several hours later. The damaged machine belonged to John Lutz.

Miss Verleia Walmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Walmer, was confined to Memorial hospital yesterday with a back injury suffered when the car she was driving left the road and knocked down a telephone pole on Highway 45 north of the city Friday night. Miss Walmer was the only one of four in the car who was hurt.

Foot Injured

Kenneth Genious, an employee of Hennies Brothers carnival, suffered an injury to his right foot early Sunday morning when he was caught under a wheel of a carnival tractor operated by Carl Miller, according to police. He was taken to a physician's office.

Automobile driven by J. T. Hannagan, 218 E. Harris street, and Mrs. George Thies, Randall addition, was slightly damaged in a collision at N. Oneida and Brewster streets at 2:45 Sunday afternoon. Hannagan was driving east on Brewster street and turning to go south on Oneida and Mrs. Thies was driving north on Oneida street when the accident occurred. The police report shows. Occupants of both cars escaped injury.

Three Black Creek youths, Earl Surprise, Marilyn Klemm and Reynold Monty, suffered minor injuries when the car in which they were riding tipped over after going into a ditch on Highway 45 just north of Bear Creek Corners about 9 o'clock Sunday night. The trio was traveling north on the highway to a dance when the accident occurred.

Kermit Jensen, Symco, suffered a chest injury early Sunday evening when his car left the roadway on County Trunk C in the town of Lebanon, Waupaca county, and turned over in the ditch. The automobile was badly damaged.

John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization and mine union chieftain, called the strike to bolster walkouts in independent steel company mills.

Fagan said picketing would continue at Republic Steel corporation mines.

The Youngstown Sheet and Tube and Bethlehem agreed to re-establish a "status quo" for the workers, Fagan said, while negotiations for a new contract were under way. A contract expired in April and the men had worked until June 17 under a truce.

U. S. Leading in Race To Establish Regular Atlantic Air Service

BY DEVON FRANCIS

Port Washington, N. Y. —(U)—The Atlantic ocean is being flown by commercial air liners—three years late.

When Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh strode down the gangplank of the cruiser Memphis on his return from his flight to Paris in 1927, he forecast regular passenger and mail service between the old and new worlds in perhaps five years.

It was technically feasible to establish transatlantic service in 1934. But three years sped by before great flying boats began dawning back and forth across the ocean in anticipation of timetable arrivals and departures by the spring of 1938. In the meantime, the Pacific had been bridged.

The nub of the situation on the Atlantic air lanes lay in chancellery conversations.

U. S. Leads Race

The race to establish regular transatlantic air service is on today. It is a political race, a jockeying for position. The stake is international prestige.

The United States is the bellwether. This country has two distinct advantages as a finer technical touch in ocean flying and more international agreements providing bases of operation.

Pan American Airways, our sole trans-ocean commercial flying company, and Great Britain's Imperial Airways are cruising back and forth across the north Atlantic, jotting down notes on the weather, analyzing the performances of their flying boats.

The trips constitute survey flights or, more properly, training flights for the crews.

Brain a Close Second

Next month Germany and France will dispatch seaplanes to the United States, forerunners of eventual service under the swastika and the tri-color.

Great Britain is close behind this country both in technical advancements and in operations agreements with other interested capitals. Her technicians, wrestling into the small hours of the morning to provide her with an air navy second to none in the European rearmament swiftness, yet have had time to devote to commercial aviation.

France and Germany are less fortunate. Theirs is the problem of catching up with developments in the aeronautical laboratory devoted to refining the commercial transport and not to the creation of the high-speed bomber and the fast, highly maneuverable pursuit ship. They fly the south Atlantic but their sole cargo is mail.

More Competition Ahead

Russia's genius has been sublimated on fighting airplanes. The Dutch, fine airmen, depend on machines of foreign make to groove their air planes on the European and Asiatic continents. Italy, holder of the world's air speed record, has not yet shown its hand in the international political picture involved in spanning the Atlantic.

In another vital field, meteorological science, the United States definitely is in the van of other world powers. Years of flying over the Caribbean along the coasts of South America, in Alaska and across the Pacific have built up for Pan American Airways a formidable knowledge of weather conditions.

The race is to the swift because the swift are obtaining tolls on the soil of lands in and bordering the Atlantic. More international agreements there will be, for nations must barter one landing site for another. More competition there will be because national pride demands an air route across the Atlantic.

Diplomatic Detour

More transatlantic flying than has taken place in all the 10 years since Lindbergh landed to the plaudits of half of Paris probably will be done this summer and fall.

And as to what it means in charted "air routes," the term is mere nomenclature. Airplanes fly where the weather is best. The route is inconsequential, the landing facilities paramount.

The shortest distance between two points, America and Europe is not a straight line. It detours through the thick-carpeted offices of the world's diplomats.

This Clinic is premised upon the service idea of getting sick people well as soon as possible, thus reducing the cost of being sick. We proceed with scientific instruments proving that the case is either getting well or standing still, knowing that the disease has been arrested. It proves that our cases are on the road to health. We present different cases to show how severe some of them could be and set well here:

Case Record No. 110, Mr. L. B. Stomach trouble since 1935, several operations, tonsils removed five years ago, constipated, constantly taking laxatives, gradually getting weaker, with no improvement, doctors advised to go to Florida for health, but on the contrary he decided to look further for health. Entered this Clinic, January, 1936, and put himself under my personal supervision with the astonishing results that the first two weeks constipation cleared up, the fourth week practically all symptoms of weakness or fatigue disappeared and in 6 weeks the case was dismissed because he could eat and enjoy his meals and his strength gradually returning.

Our scientific instruments indicated that the correction in the spine was completed and at present writing he is in the best of health and working every day. It is what he said: Chiropractic, or me, and thanks to you for the wonderful health I have received thru your scientific work. I wish there were more chiropractors like you. There is a great difference from the experience I have had before coming to you.

Now what did we do here that was not done elsewhere? Fortunately for him that he came to this Clinic, for the nervous system is free to function normally, health will prevail. For your health apply phone 4318W. Over Heckert Kamp; Bldg.

It Is Said..

THAT Walter Nau, Jr., 216 N. Story street, has evidence that the grasshoppers invading Nebraska are this year's model. He returned to Appleton over the weekend from Norfolk, Neb., and had several grasshoppers with tiny rows of "37's" on each side of their torsos. Although the numbers are small, they can easily be distinguished.

That Detective-Sergeant John Duval's fisherman's luck went from bad to only slightly better last week. He was fishing for perch in Lake Winnebago, using a couple of poles, when a heavy tug at one of his lines swept pole and all overboard into the lake. While Duval was sitting there complaining bitterly about losing his pole, there was a tug on his other line. He pulled up a tangle that included his missing pole and line plus one big sheephead.

That rain showered many churchgoers about 11:30 Sunday morning. At one church people waited in cars until the rain seemed to stop a bit, but as soon as people would make a dash it would start up and usually 25 or 30 were caught in the shower, while making the trip from car to church.

That the prolonged period of extreme heat resulted in some extra employment for carpenters. Expansion of floors in a number of homes was caused by the heat and carpenters had to be called to remove sections to eliminate the bulges.

Roosevelt Still Holds Court Plan Is Sound Policy

President Has Indicated He Hopes to Revive Issue, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—President Roosevelt has learned very little from the recent controversy over the "packing" of the supreme court and still insists that the executive has an obligation to coerce or stampede the courts.

Lawrence

Instead of a graceful yielding to the manifestations of public opinion to the effect that the judicial process should not be tampered with by politics, Mr. Roosevelt has indicated that he is only waiting for a better opportunity to revive the issue and if possible, carry it into a political campaign.

These impressions are derived from a study of the remarks of Mr. Roosevelt in his first conference with the press after his court "packing" plan was rejected by a new majority in the senate—a coalition of independent Democrats and Republicans.

What did the president say? Here are the principal points:

First, he recalled that there was a lot of feeling about the time of Theodore Roosevelt for judicial reform and that it took form in 1912 in the campaign of the Progressive party for all kinds of things like the recall of judges and the overriding of decisions by popular vote and that this demand had a very great effect on the courts and that the courts listened.

Second, that during the Coolidge and Hoover administrations, the courts slipped back to a supposedly legislative instead of judicial position, and that he, Franklin Roosevelt, revived the agitation and submitted his message to congress on February 5th.

Recalls Decisions

Third, the president has received an interesting check on what happened in the last term of the supreme court, that before the 5th of February, the supreme court held the AAA unconstitutional, limiting the spending power, and that, after Feb. 5, through the Social Security act decision, the AAA ruling was reversed; that, before Feb. 5, the Guffey act was held unconstitutional, but after Feb. 5, the Wagner act was held constitutional. He completed the list with a reference to the fact that before Feb. 5 the court held the New York minimum wage law unconstitutional and then, after that date, reversed itself in the Washington minimum wage case, when, he insists, the New York minimum wage decision was overruled.

Fourth, the president feels that the net results is that we have obtained certain objectives talking in the large, that the country still wants insurance of the continuity of that objective and the country wants more and better judicial mechanism for getting the maximum justice in a minimum of time.

Fifth, that the people have been more court conscious and they are more constitutionally minded since 1910 and 1912 and the country understands pretty thoroughly that the constitution is not intended to block social and economic reform through court legislation for those reforms are necessary to the nation for the general welfare with changing times.

"Long Ways to Go"

Sixth, when asked if the president is satisfied with the progress thus far made, he declared we were getting somewhere and we have a long way to go and he thinks the country pretty well understands what it is all about.

Careful examination of what the president communicated to the press in his characteristically informal fashion leads to a query as to why, if the courts were listening last spring, it was necessary for him to pursue his court packing plan through June and July. The answer was given by the president himself when he indicated that the country still wants insurance of the continuity of the objective he has expressed and that this is just as true after a majority of the senate has rejected the court packing plan as it was before that event occurred. If Mr. Roosevelt feels he has a long way to go on the issue and if he is confident the country understands what it is all about, the only conclusion that can be reached is that the president intends to keep the issue alive, using public agitation as a means of controlling the decisions of the supreme court of the United States and carrying out his "future" also by the filling of future vacancies on the highest bench with men who will conform to his idea of what is "legislative" and what is "judicial."

Mr. Roosevelt's comment on whether or not the supreme court was stampeded into deciding certain New Deal cases in his favor, as he would now like the nation to think, will be sharply disputed. Not only is it a reflection upon the disinterestedness of the court but in at least one instance the claim has no foundation in historical fact. Decided in December.

Thus the Washington minimum wage case was argued during the week of Dec. 14 last and a vote of the court was taken the following Saturday showing a 4 to 4 decision. Writing of the opinion and the final 5 to 4 vote was delayed till the return in March of Justice Stone who had been ill. But since Mr. Stone had voted previously to uphold the New York state minimum wage statute it means that, to all intents and purposes as a matter of historical fact, the Washington minimum wage law was actually upheld by the supreme court last December and not after Feb. 5 as Mr. Roosevelt contends.

Likewise the president has been misinformed if he thinks the AAA decision of January, 1935, limited the spending power whereas the

Finis

The proposal to establish Presidential control of the Federal courts has been defeated so emphatically that it will be a long time, to use the words of the Senate Committee, before its parallel will again be presented to the free representatives of the free people of America. For what Mr. Roosevelt could not do when he was at the height of his popularity and his power, neither he nor his successors are likely soon to try again to do.

In the heat of his five months' struggle a prohibition against impairment of judicial independence has been welded into the traditions of the country. From now on this prohibition is as binding as if it were expressly written into the law; it has been made one of the great usages of the constitution, like the rule that the Electoral college must register the popular vote, like the rule that no president may have more than two terms.

Leaders Conscious of Writing Page for History

From the beginning the leaders in this struggle have been conscious that they were writing a chapter in the history of constitutional liberty. That was the source of their strength. They believed, with a conviction that overrode all other considerations, that they were defending and reaffirming the historic principle upon which depends the maintenance of all individual rights. It is the principle proclaimed more than three hundred years ago in England when Chief Justice Coke told James the First that even the King was "under God and the law." Since that historic occasion the champions of liberty in England, their successors here, their colleagues in all free countries, have always understood that the rights of men could be guaranteed only if those rights could be determined before an independent judiciary.

Without courts that the sovereign does not control, the rights of men can rest on no secure foundation. In Russia today, for example, there is a constitution which proclaims most eloquently the essential rights of man. But it is meaningless. For no dissenter can enforce his rights; there are no courts that are anything but the instruments of the dictatorship, the civil rights under the Russian constitution are the cruelest kind of mockery.

Shows Where Deepest Difference Between Two Lies

The deepest difference between a free government and a despotism lies precisely here; in a free state the government is under the law, officials are creatures of the law, and the humblest individual may sue for his rights against the most powerful official. But in a despotism the rules are above the law.

They make the law as they see fit and they administer the law as they choose. The individual has no rights which he can enforce as against the government.

It was this fundamental distinction between freedom and despotism that the President's proposal ignored. And though one can readily admit, and all his opponents did

Social Security act did not. The truth is, as was pointed out in January, 1935, in these dispatches and in the writings of others at the time, the AAA ruling paved the way for exactly the kind of ruling which later appeared in the Social Security act quoted pertinently from the AAA case to support the view of the court in the social security case whose formal opinion he wrote.

The same lack of accuracy may be charged to the president with reference to his contention that the Wagner act opinion reversed the Guffey case opinion. The truth is the court held that congress in the first Guffey act had set up a compulsory mechanism for the regulation of wages and hours in a production industry, whereas in the Wagner case it said congress had the right to compel only negotiations and not agreements between employer and employee for collective bargaining and definitely said the decision in the coal case did not apply.

Points Differ

Since the Wagner act opinion was handed down by the supreme court last spring, a United States circuit court of appeals in a decision has pointed out that it fully understood the distinction between the Guffey case and the Wagner act opinion and held that they were rulings on two absolutely different points.

Mr. Roosevelt could know these things if he cared to give weight to the views of lawyers other than the "yes men" at his side and it is rather unfortunate that in his talk to the press he did not even mention the existence of another side to the controversy, preferring dogmatically to express beliefs, a facts which he could easily have been told, if he did not already know, were at least subject to important differences of opinion.

But Mr. Roosevelt's whole approach to everything he does or says is political and that's why, notwithstanding the temper of the country which caused more than half of the members of his own party in the senate to vote against him, the president insists on his own "objective," namely to influence the courts. Perhaps he thinks history will repeat itself and the Republican party will have to be split in 1938 and 1940 as it was in 1912. If that is what Mr. Roosevelt had in mind when he pointedly referred to the issues that divided the Republican party a quarter of a century ago, they may find history repeating itself in a fundamental split in the Democratic party.

New Type of Radio Man To Fill Marconi's Shoes

BY C. E. BUTTERFIELD
New York—(4)—Nowhere in the world is there a second Marconi, a single individual who could carry on in radio from the point where Italy's noted inventor was forced by death to leave off.

While there probably are thousands bending their efforts toward the improvement of radio, each contributing his important share, none stands out as did Marconi.

Collectively, it's a different matter. Laboratories with hundreds of specialists are so set up in this country and abroad that research can go on without pause in the invention that the calm-spoken man across the seas developed into a commercial practicability more than 35 years ago.

Responsibility On Groups

In other words, the new things in radio must come now from researchers as a group rather than from a co-worker to whom they could look as leader. For wireless has become a big business since that day in 1901 when Marconi sat on the shores of Newfoundland and listened to the first transatlantic message—the single letter "s".

The change has brought to the fore a new type—a business executive upon whom many look as the spokesman for radio. He is David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America and for 30 years a close friend of Marconi. One of Sarnoff's first jobs in radio was messenger boy for the company Marconi formed in America for transatlantic communication. Their friendship began soon afterward, Marconi was the boy's inspiration.

Sarnoff climbed until he became head of this country's, if not the world's greatest radio organization. Its broadcasting system ranges from coast to coast. Its communication circuits span the globe. It manufactures all types of radio equipment, operates extensive research laboratories which dip into almost everything concerned with the present and possible future of radio.

Television Stand-Out

In a field of development to come—television—two personalities stand out above others for their research accomplishments. They are Dr.

Vladimir Zworykin of RCA and Philo T. Farnsworth of his own laboratory.

The work of these men in seeking to make radio sight practicable has attracted nearly as much attention of late as did Marconi's efforts. Their problems have been just as difficult as were those of Marconi. But none has developed for himself a place that could be considered a counterpart to the "father of wireless."

Appleton Is Represented At Festival

ALTHOUGH strong winds Sunday afternoon and rain Sunday evening ruined the Green Bay Yacht club's program of races and the Venetian night parade of decorated boats it had planned as part of Green Bay's first annual water festival and homecoming, a number of Appleton persons went northward with their cruisers on Saturday and Sunday and made a weekend of it nevertheless.

On their boat, the Judge Right, Mr. and Mrs. John Fuhrmann had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Armin Albrecht, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Maier, Eleanor Fuhrmann, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cobb and family and Miss Cecile Muller. Andrew Liethen took his cruiser, the Dion, to the bay for Saturday and Sunday, and also sailed with his guests, Mr. and Mrs. Roman Probst, Appleton, and Miss Bobbie Beth, Menasha, to Sturgeon Bay.

Other Appleton Boat club members in Green Bay over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Cy Feller, Kaukauna. Their guests on the Shenandoah were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Chopin, Kaukauna. Judge and Mrs. Fred V. Heinemann, who left for Green Bay Saturday on their boat, the Horse-leather, are expected to return home tonight. Among their guests on the trip Saturday were Miss Frances Stevens and Miss Pat Ferron, Indianapolis, who are visiting here at the Paul Stevens home, 1103 N. Morrison street. Mr. Stevens went to Green Bay Saturday night to get them. Charles Pardee is another of the guests on the Heinemann boat. The Appleton Boat club's own cruiser, Whoopee, carried a stag party to Green Bay. Among the men on board were Sheriff John Lappen, Harry Laabs and Russell Jabas.

Temporary Truce Fails to Result In End of Strike

Picket Lines are Resumed By Food Handlers In New York

Buffalo, N. Y.—Striking food handlers returned to their picket lines today, the temporary truce in their fight for closed shop union contracts already ended without agreement.

As Buffalo housewives sought to replenish larders depleted by weekend meals, state labor mediators sought again a permanent settlement between employers and the 2,000 striking employees, who have kept grocery deliveries tied up for six days.

The truce, during which strikers promised to drop picketing and embargo efforts and wholesalers said they would not move provisions, ended at midnight and strike leaders immediately rallied forces to resume their blockade on grocery deliveries to retail stores.

The Rev. Dr. John F. Boland, chairman of New York state labor relations board, drew representatives of 44 wholesale grocery merchants and 40 striking truck drivers into a new peace parley to discuss three possible compromise plans they worked out last night.

Hugh Thompson, CIO, leader representing 1,000 butchers, said he was ready to pursue new peace efforts with managers of three packing plants where union workers walked out striking a closed shop and a national labor relations board election.

With egg, butter, sugar, flour and canned foods deliveries shut off to several large chain companies and many independent stores for the sixth consecutive day, retail merchants reported shelves bare of many staple products.

Prices on several basic foods rose slightly and many housewives had to be content with second grades and off brands.

Tentative Plans for Park Pavilion Drawn

Tentative plans for a pavilion in Erb park have been drawn and have been placed at the Unmuth Drug store, 208 E. Wisconsin avenue, where they may be inspected by the public.

The plans provide for a 1-story wooden structure with a concrete base, 42 feet wide and 50 feet long. The main room may be used as a dining hall or for dancing. There is a kitchen at the rear and lavatories for men and women.

Plans for the pavilion were ordered drawn recently by the common council so that the type and cost of pavilion may be decided upon this year and included in next year's budget.

Under The Capitol Dome

By John Wyngaard
Post-Crescent Staff Correspondent

Madison — That the opposition will attempt to take advantage of the bad blood between factions in the Progressive party became apparent here over the weekend when Democrats let it be known that they will attempt to organize both houses of the legislature in the special session of the legislature which Governor LaFollette will call soon.

A well organized plan is afoot to turn out the Progressives chosen to legislative offices last January, and this is to be accomplished with the aid of a number of Progressives who are dissatisfied with the treatment given them and their wishes during the regular sessions which ended early this month.

Although the Progressives succeeded in carrying a resolution in the closing days of the regular session that Speaker Paul Alfonsi will hold his office without another election in the special session, opponents hope that this can be over-ruled. John Slocum, secretary of the Democratic party organization, has already expressed his willingness to take Lester R. Johnson's chief clerkship during the new session.

William B. Rubin, stormy petrel of Wisconsin Democratic party politics, and self-styled leader of the liberal wing of that party, has a fresh idea. He would have the Progressives align with the Democrats. Rubin mourns the failure of the Progressives "in the spiritual sense to come together, in their sense apart and not uniting under one banner in the one party of Roosevelt, that the spiritual sense might live and gain instead of staying divided so that political looters, hangers-on and scoundrels may graft, while big business is stressing the spread of the wedge between liberals and progressives for its unholy dividends."

Some tongue-in-cheek comments on the Wisconsin political situation by a Chicago paper under the title "Just Phil and Glenn" expresses what is in many minds here. Says the piece, after noting that the former university president has bought a home hard by the LaFollette residence, "Taking note of Phil's success in politics, Glenn is said to be contemplating a career for office. Why not Glenn? Why not run together, as it were, in neighborly fashion? In fact it is being said already that Glenn would be willing to run for the governorship with Phil in 1938 in just a friendly competition."

It may be that the people of Wisconsin, having observed how Phil threw Glenn out, and thinking that turn about is fair play, would gladly help Glenn, in 1938, throw Phil out. Stranger things have happened.

L. C. Whitell, member of the state trade practices commission which legally came to an end Saturday because the legislature failed to renew the fair trades law, sees dire happenings as the result of the expiration of the codes.

Penal conditions will result when "the rules of fair play" are ignored in commercial competition, he warned here last week.

As the state government grows ever larger, the state capital annually spreads over a larger area of the city. At present approx-mately a third of the government is housed outside the capitol building, with the result that official visitors who have business with several departments are often forced to do a considerable amount of tramping around the square.

Most of the desirable office space on the square has already been taken by state departments, whose ever increasing work has crowded them out of the 20-year-old, $7,500,000 capitol building.

That Andrew A. Washburn of Clintonville has not yet given up hope of getting on the department of agriculture and markets commission was shown this week when literature promoting his candidacy made its appearance in Madison.

Appointments to the agriculture commission are by the governor; there are three jobs, all of them many months overdue now.

Washburn's cards relate that he "has fought 35 years for economic justice to the American farmer; pioneered in alfalfa growing in Wisconsin; pioneered the tuberculosis test in Waupaca county; promoted dairy herd improvement work; is 100 per cent cooperative minded and has saved many farms from foreclosure by securing loans from government agencies."

A prominent Democrat of Wisconsin, talking over politics with friends here the other day, admitted that "we would like to have John Cashman of Denmark run as a Democrat for congress in the Eighth district next year."

Senator Cashman, now holding state senate office as a Progressive, is reported to be considering another campaign for a congressional seat. Party leaders indicate, however, that they will maintain a hands-off policy and let the district Democrats decide on their own candidates.

Organization into unions of county government employees is progressing throughout Wisconsin at a rapid pace, according to the Wisconsin Public Employees association, an A. F. L. group of state employees.

In 15 counties organization work is already underway, it was said, and requests for information have been received from Outagamie and Brown county employees.

Senator Harry Bolens, whose stature in the state senate is admitted by friends and foes alike, and who is the ablest and the most relentless opponent of the LaFollette and all their following, tells a story which illustrates his attitude on the current alliance between the Wisconsin Progressives and Socialists.

According to a friend, the story relates an experience of an ancestor of the senator during the Civil war, as follows:

"The ancestor and another soldier were refugees. One of them had no less the other no arms. They were in great need of food. They had a rifle. The man with the arms shot a wild turkey, and the man with no arms took the turkey and had arms. The man with the arms also kicked up firewood into a pile nearby. The man with the arms dressed and cooked the turkey. And so they got along."

And, so says Bolens, that is the position of the Progressives and the Socialists. The Socialists have good arms, and they grab enough in Wisconsin politics, but they haven't any less, at least they don't get anywhere. But the Progressives, he feels, have splendid political legs, which do carry them somewhere. And so the Socialists get the turkey, and the Progressives cook and eat it.

4,000 Persons Attend Onida Church Picnic

Onida—Despite rainy and cool weather about 4,000 persons attended the annual picnic of the immaculate Conception church here Sunday. Receipts totaled approximately $2,500, according to the Rev. A. A. Vissers, pastor.

State Senator E. E. Brunette, Green Bay, spoke on "State's Rights" and praised the supreme court on its protection of the rights of the minority. Amateur programs were held each hour with the winners competing in the evening. John Van Pelt and his partner won first prize. A chicken dinner was served.

State's Trade School Program Is 25 Years Old

Pass Another Milestone in Badger Record of Innovations

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Back in 1911 a group of far-sighted educational pioneers introduced in the legislature, and succeeded in passing, legislation which was intended to bring into the lives of people who have severed their connection with the full-time school cultural and vocational educational values.

This year the system which they created, and the Wisconsin State Board of Vocational Education, is observing the completion of its first quarter century of service. The first law for the part time education of employed youth is now 25 years old, another milestone in Wisconsin's long record of successful government innovations.

Now is Statewide

Beginning with an enrollment of a few hundred in the larger centers of population, the vocational education system has grown until it is now statewide and a traditional unit of the public school system. Today more than 102,000 students are spending their spare hours in vocational schools in 43 cities, 37 of which have both day and evening classes.

Not only was Wisconsin the first to inaugurate an educational system for the out of school group, Wisconsin today has the best system of its kind.

When the first law was created a quarter of a century ago, the legislature went at the problem systematically and thoughtfully, setting up a special state board and special local boards which would devote all their attention to the complicated problem of rendering educational service to the special group which was to be reached. The boards were made representative of the employee, the employer and the professional school men. Younger workers were to be protected in their right to continued schooling by guaranteeing them a few hours a week of schooling out of their regular working day.

The law was specific. Every municipality of 5,000 population or more was required to establish a vocational school. In smaller communities it was optional. No permit for gainful work could be obtained by any youth under 16 years, and boys between 14 and 16, needed for work at home, were required to attend vocational school part time until he was 16. And today, any youth in a vocational school full time must attend vocational school classes from the age of 16 to 19. Indentured apprentices are also required to attend, and all employers of young people must allow them to attend classes.

George P. Hambrecht, present director of the state department of vocational education, explains that vocational schools have taken on considerably wider duties than vocational education.

"Some misunderstanding," he says, "we find it frequently necessary to explain the apparent anomaly of the discrepancy between function and title of the Wisconsin Vocational schools," says Hambrecht. "In the past, much trouble has arisen over the lack of understanding of this peculiarity of the so-called vocational school law of Wisconsin. Today, with the increasing emphasis throughout the country upon the necessity for developing general adult education it is especially desirable that the people of Wisconsin should realize that they have, and have had for the past 25 years, special agencies for the promotion and development of general adult education, and that these agencies are the state and local boards of vocational education."

In the early days the schools served only juvenile workers. Today there is an ever increasing percentage of older working youth and adults. "Naturally, the work of the vocational school has had to become more advanced to meet the problems of the new type of student," explains Hambrecht.

The part time and evening schools are functioning to serve the out-of-school group with both vocational and general cultural training. They are intended to deal with a group education problem outside the regular school system, instead of enlarging the scope of the regular system.

Frequent Changes

"The rapidly changing industrial and agricultural processes require constant readjustment and training on the part of employees and workers," Hambrecht points out. "If we neglect this problem, we shall face a rapidly increasing number of our youth and adults who will be unemployable as well as unemployed."

It is going to require sympathetic and understanding administration of vocational courses, part-time and full-time, in order to meet our need to prepare for and give our farmers and farm women, youth and adult, educational opportunities otherwise denied them."

A significant recent development in the vocational education field is the phenomenal expansion in the last few years of the apprenticeship program. Participation in this program, with the aid of federal funds, has become so successful that there is a waiting list of farm youth. Departments of vocational agriculture have been established in rural high schools have steadily increased, and now total 138 with more than 10,000 young farmers enrolled. This year the number of departments is expected to jump to 160.

Other special services of the department include classes in selected communities of the state for the specialized instruction of apprentices and journeymen in many special trades, such as barbering, plumbing, electricity and others. Evening and part-time classes in rural home economies are also given in rural high schools, and home projects, including beautification of the home, grounds and gardens, are undertaken by the students. Other classes are conducted for out-of-school farm women.

Another important aspect of the department's work is the vocational rehabilitation program, in which Wisconsin again pioneered. Work of this kind was begun here in 1917, three years before a federal act was passed for the same ends. Originally rehabilitation work was concerned principally with industrial accidents.

Majority of Cases

Today, however, the majority of cases are those injured on the street, in the home, on the farm, and those handicapped from birth. According to Mr. Hambrecht, "as soon as the injured person is able to think of the future, the board gets in touch with him and arranges for his training if he needs it and if he will react favorably to it. The instruction may be in a school or college or may be special training in a shop or under a private instructor." Costs of this work are met in part by local school budgets and private contributions.

Wisconsin legislators are traditionally skeptical of the claims of state departments, who come before them periodically with appropriation requests. But a recent legislative interim committee, after looking over education throughout the nation, concluded: "Wisconsin has reached the enviable position of world-wide leadership in the field of vocational education."

Townsend Tells Of Plan to Enact His Plan Into Law

Grange, Marinette, president; F. B. Greenwood, Black Creek, vice president; and Aza Briggs, Green Bay, secretary and treasurer.

The Sixth Congressional District board will meet at Fond du Lac next Sunday afternoon to plan for a joint meeting of the boards of the Sixth, Seventh and Eighth districts in that city on Aug. 8.

Problem of Free Time

"The time is coming," Dr. Townsend said, "when a third of the population will turn out all our factory needs, and the problem is what to do with the sudden liberation from slavery of production."

Because of poverty and the other things that go along with it, only half of the people are able to enjoy the good things they have, he continued, and said the nation can't advance as long as 40 or 50 per cent of the people are afflicted in this way.

"This year marks the eighth of the depression, and there is something extremely wrong with a nation that permits this condition for so long a time," he declared.

"To start traveling on the progressive road, a new system of taxation must be established," he said. "Under the present system the bulk of taxes falls upon property, and there is a limit to which it can be taxed."

Proposes Tax

He then proposed taxes on buying, explaining that every person must "buy or die." Everyone sells something, so no one escapes under the method, he said.

"All taxes gathered under this system should be used to increase the country's wealth, not to decrease it as is being done at present," he continued. "This can be done by apportionment of the taxes among the elderly people with the provision that they spend their monthly allotments in 30 days."

"Wheels of industry would start turning and a great potential market would not be kept waiting. As the wealth increases, there will be more in taxes and thus larger disbursements."

Explains Plan

Answering his own question as to why everyone shouldn't be included under the plan, Dr. Townsend explained it would kill ambition of the young. Persons over 60 years of age find it almost impossible to find employment, and under the plan the wisdom and knowledge they have acquired could be used in creating a market for man's needs, he said.

He charged that the supreme court plan had been a nefarious suggestion to "pack the court" and that it intended to "nullify the courts' actions." It would abolish the constitution, he said and added charges should first be submitted to the people for their vote.

"We must stand for the three branches of government," he went on. "It is a time that we must be ready for democracy, which has given way to autocracies in some other countries. Let us be careful in our own communities to see that there are no encroachments on the rights of citizens."

Value of Money

"Money has no value unless it is used to help exchange goods. The government should circulate it instead of 'buying' it in the ground as is being done with gold at the present time. The elderly people will create and maintain a market."

SPEAKS HERE

Dr. Francis E. Townsend, above, founder of the Townsend pension plan, is shown as he addressed a crowd of about 3,000 persons at Pierce park Sunday afternoon on a new plan to have the system enacted into law at an early date. and there will be a just and beneficial use of wealth.

"The government could undertake a number of magnificent projects. We need about 20 cross-country highways. Schools of politics, technology and citizenship could be maintained through public taxation. Such schools can take politics out of the mire in which it is today. You have the nucleus of such schools in your Townsend clubs. Start studying your problems now and let the office seek the man, rather than the man seek the office. Draft the people you want to serve you, instead of voting for politicians who are interested only in perpetuation of their groups."

He closed his talk with a personal appeal for funds for which to employ organizers to promote his plan of petitions to have the Townsend plan enacted into law.

C. S. Curtis, president of the Sixth Congressional board, presided at the meeting.

3 High School Boys Rescued From Lake

Milwaukee — Three 17-year-old high school boys were rescued from Lake Michigan Saturday after they had clung to their capsized sailboat for an hour.

The boys, Raymond Otto, Harry Wiesner and Edward Kraus, were picked up by Roy D. Connell and his son, Daniel, 15, in their sloop, the Spray, about four miles off shore.

Fishing Is Popular With Boys at Gardner Dam Camp

Gardner Dam—To the scout who had the fishing urge when he arrived at Gardner Dam Boy Scout camp for Paul Bunyan week there has come a great deal of satisfaction Friday morning at breakfast.

Bill Heckrodt and George Meier showed the rest of the camp a fine mess of brook trout that they had garnered out of the creek running through the camp property. Both campers had arisen early and taken their rods down to the stream and hooked the goodly number that they had on display.

The catch so enthused Howard Gatliff, scout executive of Kenosha, who is visiting the camp that George had to take him down to the stream to show him where to cast his line.

With a swimming meet in prospect for the afternoon the campers were considering the various events and making decisions on which to enter. A number of scouts are completing training requirements during their stay at camp. In the beginners class are John Kramer, Dick Marx, Norbert Dressang, Herman Bushman, Bob Krause, Waldo Puffer and Dick Dunger.

Life Saving Instruction

Scouts learning to do the various holds and how to break them in life saving rescues are Pete Kohl, Don Duprey, Don McLennan, Jim Bantley, Ed Maxwell, Jim Miller, Eugene Kulloren, Don Smith, John Zwicker, Jerry Arens, Bob Ebben and Bill Lawson.

The life saving classes complete their requirements for the life saving merit badge this week and those who continue on the following week complete the hours required for Junior Red Cross Life Saving awards.

The two week training for Junior Red Cross life saving was determined after a conference with Red Cross officials. It was decided that in order to complete the requirements in one week the camper would either have to sacrifice active participation in other parts of the camp program or certain fundamental training would have to be eliminated. Consequently it was decided to better train each candidate and extend the junior red cross program into 2-week sessions.

Scouts unable to attend camp more than one week will have an opportunity to continue their work at home and receive their awards.

Handicraft Projects

The handicraft shop has been a popular spot during the past week. Among the popular projects have been brass trappings made by John Long, Bob Krause, Dick Dunger, Francis Speel, Don Alesch, Herman Bushman, Don Garrigan, Norbert Dressang and Ray Thomas.

Campers who will be sporting new belts are Bob Feuerstein, Francis Speel, Morris Natrop, Francis Rechner, John Haug, Bob Christensen, Ralph Wettengel, Jerry Natrop, Jerry Arens, Herman Bushman, Don Garrigan, John Wiegand, Delmar Schulze, Jim Zwicker, Bob Kettenhofen, Jack Puffer, Tom Letter and Bob Krause.

Somebody is going to get bracelets because Bob McCauley, Bill Lawson, Marvin Cohen and Jack Puffer have been busy making them out of round lacing. "Skip-pers" or wooden block shower shoes are another interesting project which are holding the creative interest of Bill Van Lieshout, Jerry Driscoll, Bob Mullen and Jim Miller.

Indian type moccasins are being made by Bob Bolinski, Don Garrigan, Tim McCarthy, Jack Flanagan and Bud Thomas. Indian beadwork, lanyards, horns and soap carvings are being made by Wesley Latham, Dave Spalding and Tom Letter.

Cabin and table inspections are highly competitive and all of the groups are working for the special feed that is awarded the groups with the highest scores at the end of the week.

Campers are also beginning to eye the satisfactory and honor campers award awards that are to be presented Saturday evening at the final council campfire of the week. A meeting of all Links members, the honorary campers society, will be held Friday evening to elect new members.

Nearly 1,700 Persons Inspect Sewage Plant

Between 1,500 and 1,700 persons inspected the sewage disposal plant during the formal opening Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Clarence O. Baetz, superintendent, estimated today. The plant, erected under the PWA program, was built at a cost of nearly $700,000.

Visitors were conducted through the various plant buildings where the different operations and treatment of sewage were explained by attendants. Visitors were much impressed at the cleanliness of the plant and surprised at the lack of odor, Baetz said.

Booklets describing the plant and its operation and samples of fertilizer from the dry sludge were distributed.

Regular visitor's hours will be set up for the plant in the near future, the superintendent stated.

skill in keeping free of traps. Red foxes on our continent have met the dangers which were brought by the white men, and have lived through them.

Red foxes are found in every province of Canada, also in Alaska. They have been reported from every state in the United States except Florida. The growth of cities has driven them from some places but they often live within easy range of cities. They try to escape the dogs, guns and traps of white men, but they dare to go into farmyards to get something to eat.

People like to eat the flesh of chicken, and so do foxes. Time and again they have robbed hen roosts. They seem to feel they have as much right to the chickens as the people who are raising them.

During the winter, red foxes do not often spend their time in dens. They have extra-thick fur during cold weather, and seem not to mind roaming about and resting above ground. If they lived under ground when there was snow, it would be easier for hunters to track them to their homes.

At the end of the winter, however, they go into dens. With their strong fore-paws, they dig into the soil.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

grand girl. God! How I pitted her! But we sat there within two feet of each other and planned each other's death. I waited until she asked for another sleeping powder. I went into the bathroom to fix it, where she could not possibly see me, and I put a half a box of the damned powder into her glass.

"But she was ahead of me. I came back to find her crying. It wasn't as if her state of mind had been her fault. Seeing her that way, I tried to comfort her, but she wouldn't listen for a long time. Then something appeared to snap in her and she poured out a story. She said that she had lured you into the old loft, Mike and shot you. Then, frightened, she had put you inside one of the cedar chests and left you there—alive.

"If I had stopped to think, I would have known that she was lying. She hadn't been out of my sight since you had left the room. But she knew me well enough to know that I wouldn't stop. That loft was used as a sort of strong-room in Grandfather's time. I had forgotten its existence. I tore up to it, dragging her with me. And when I got to the place where she wanted me, she simply crowned me with something. The rest of that—let's not talk about it."

The Skipper's pauses were becoming longer and more difficult, but she went on.

"I think Higgins suspected her, but the place had never been used in his time. He didn't know how to get into it, and he knew that Martha was watching him. I heard someone tapping around down here trying to find the opening, and I imagined it was Higgins. Also, he probably wasn't sure of himself. Martha's nearly dying after she finally took the powder probably made him wonder whether I hadn't simply attempted to murder her a second time and then beat it to escape being caught."

"I heard him calling to me several times through the floor in his room. He apparently knew I was there, but though I could answer him or come down if I wanted to. When Martha knew that I had been found—dead or alive—she knew that Higgins would talk. Poor old Higgins had been protecting her with his life. He even removed those letters that she planted in William's room. She begged the originals from me long ago and kept them all this time. Those letters were forgeries, of course. Higgins had saved her life, but now he was dangerous. And so—she killed him."

A Moral Somewhere

The Skipper stopped abruptly and the sudden silence was painful. Michael sat with his head in his hands, motionless. Gay's subdued face was turned toward him, and her eyes were anxious. But the Skipper sat straight and stiff between them, her face a mask and her eyes straight ahead. Finally Michael raised his head.

"Is that all?" he said in a muffled voice.

The Skipper's smile was twisted. "That's all. If you like, Jim, you can send Jack Blinshout out here to me."

I suppose it's poetic justice that I should be the person to tell him."

Blindly I groped for words, found none, and choked out, "I'm telling him."

Gay got suddenly to her feet, dropped one swift kiss on the top of the Skipper's head, and went noiselessly from the room. I wanted to follow her, but my feet seemed riveted to the spot.

"I suppose," the Skipper's voice went on, "there's a moral somewhere in this, although at the moment it eludes me. Something about the wages of sin, no doubt. Only, Mickie, I— Her voice caught and stopped. One instant there was silence; the next the room was filled with dry, hard sobbing. Michael crashed to his knees.

I slipped through the game room and out the side entrance to the lawn, barely feeling the sting of the cold, salt air. I needed a coat, but not badly enough to go back for one. The foot of the drive confronted me before I was really aware that I was walking. Pausing, I stared out across the water toward the mainland. A motor dory was headed tragical for the spot where I stood. In another minute the leathery old face of Andie Darrel was staring up at me from under his seaweater.

"Hi there!" he trumpeted nasally.

Wildenberg Hits Twice; Drives in Two Runs for Win

Behr Hurls 5-Hit Ball for Shutout Victory Despite Sore Arm

SUNDAY'S GAMES
Green Bay at Manitowoc, (postponed)
Kimberly 2, Little Chute 0.
Kaukauna at Two Rivers, (postponed)

BY KUTZ DERUS
LITTLE CHUTE—Kimberly Parkers took an edge in this season's meetings with the Hollander nine of the Northern State league here Sunday afternoon when Art Behr allowed 5-hit ball and U. Wildenberg drove in the two runs that blanked the Little Chute club 2 to 0. The win gave Kimberly undisputed possession of second place in league standings as the other games were postponed.

Victory for the Parkers also added insult to injury for it pushed the Little Chute club into the cellar position. Wirkkala, who was imported by the Chuters after Dick Weisgerber left the club to go to Cleveland, was the victim of Old Man Jinx, an ardent follower of the Little Chute nine. Wirkkala, a big right hander, who showed with the De Pere and Wausau nines in the last two seasons, allowed only six hits, but his mates failed to give him a working margin.

Kimberly Scores in Third
Kimberly tallied first in the third inning, after J. Wildenberg got a base on balls and scored after two men were out and a third walked. Urban Wildenberg socked the first of two hits as he singled to drive in the first Kimberly run. He touched one of Wirkkala's fast ones for a triple in the seventh to score the second run for the Parkers.

It was evident from the first inning on that the game was going to be close and that both pitchers would be called on for their best. Schroeder singled after one was out in the Kimberly half of the inning and then was caught in a fielder's choice. U. Wildenberg was caught stealing second when Jack Lamers dropped the ball, but tossed a perfect throw to second to catch Wildenberg by a mile.

Little Chute was held without a hit in their half of the initial frame but Bongers lined a single into left field with one out in the second inning. He was caught in a fielder's choice and Dombrowski grounded out.

Nip And Tuck Battle
The nip and tuck effect kept up until the third when J. Wildenberg walked to start the inning. Behr grounded out on a slow roller that failed to advance the runner and Zinth whiffed at three. Schroeder drove a base on balls and U. Wildenberg drove in the first run with a single into center. Bowman was hit by the pitcher and Hovv went out on a long fly to center field, with Dombrowski making a sensational catch.

Players on both teams were handicapped by a strong wind and both pitchers had considerable trouble making their "stuff" work. Behr, reported to have a sore arm, used a slow ball up to the last three innings when he began to bear down and hold the Chuters to only one hit.

It looked like the Chuters were going to show Old Man Jinx a thing or two in the fifth. Peotter cracked a perfect bunt and Dombrowski hit a drive that went for a single. But the threat was diminished when Wildenberg struck out and Wirkkala hit into a fielder's choice, and then Lucassen got a taste of Art Behr's fast ball. Three pitches and "Snare" waved the second strikeout of the inning.

George Tox Tosses
Manager George Vanderloof was ready to throw in the towel after the fourth when he had a man on third base after a single and two errors with only one out, but when the fifth came along with its heart-breaking ending, he knew the jinx couldn't be broken.

The Kimberly infield featured in two double plays. The first game, when Strick batted for Lucassen in the eighth, with one man on base, Schroeder got the grounder and headed perfectly to LeMay, who in turn tossed to Bowman. The second came in the ninth frame after J. Lamers slapped a single with one out. This time Vanderloof sent a sizzler down to Schroeder and the performance was repeated.

Weather Is Cold
It was good football weather, but despite threatening skies and a cold northwest wind, a large crowd was on hand to watch the two rivals clash for the third time this season. The win gave Kimberly its second shutout victory in the three meet ings.

Bongers got a lot of razzing every time he came to the plate but stopped it for a time with his single. Dombrowski also came in for his share of the wolves' howling when he protested too vehemently over an umpire's decision at second base. The Chuter left fielder started for Umpire Wahl but slowed up and confined his disagreement to loud protests.

Other league games were postponed because of wet grounds and threatening weather.

DALE—Black Creek and Dale's meeting here Sunday afternoon broke up in a row in the last of the sixth inning after an umpire's decision failed to please either the other umpire, or both teams. The game was typical of other meetings of the two teams, filled with arguments and several near fights.

Black Creek took an early lead through errors by Dale in the first inning, but Dale tied the score in their half of the fifth. The riot act was put on in the sixth with Black Creek at bat. Two batters were retired on infield grounders and then Erv Rohloff singled. Mielke, batting for Zuelsdorf, clouted another

YOUNG JACK GIBBONS

Gibbons to Meet George Black on Milwaukee Card

Young Jack Reports for 10-Round Bout at State Fair Park

MILWAUKEE—With Young Jack Gibbons reporting in Milwaukee everything is set for the all star boxing card at the Milwaukee State Fair park Tuesday night. Matchmaker Billy Mitchell is scheduling 40 rounds of fighting with Young Jack Gibbons, son of the St. Paul Phantom, Mike, topping the bill for ten rounds with George Black who replaces Chet Le Vere who turned up with a cut eye.

Giving away 12 pounds several months ago Black fought Dave Clark to even terms at Detroit which earned him a signed contract with Jack Kearns for a match with Freddie Steele, middleweight champion, on an all star show that Kearns is planning for September. Dave Clarke rates sixth following Gibbons in the national ratings for the light heavyweight division.

Some real battles should develop in the three eight feature events that precede the Gibbons-Black bout. Augie Kluber, a Kenosha boy, will have the toughest assignment he has been asked to take, in Al Nettlow, who possesses the fastest left hand seen around here in many a day, as Larry Greb and Roger Bernard can testify.

Misko Also Shows
Al Schwartz, local middleweight, will meet Frankie Misko, another tough hombre, over the eight round bout. There will be more betting on this bout than any other on the card with the odds favoring Misko.

Babe Joe Gans who has met five world champions, Barney Ross, Vince Dundee, Lou Brouillard, Jackie Fields and Freddie Steele meets former lightweight champion Sammy Mandell's fighter Bobby Matthews of Louisville in another eight round feature. Gans hails from Los Angeles.

Nick Sanders will open the show with Max Brown. They are heavyweights. As an added attraction, Mitchell is putting on a wrestling match featuring Art Shires former Milwaukee baseball player. Since the Great One has turned grappler he has won in 21 starts.

Mitchell predicts the largest house of the season with reservations coming in from towns in the state where automobile parties are being arranged to see the show.

SUNDAY'S GAMES

Appleton 4, Oshkosh 2.
Neenah 5, Menasha 2.

NEEHAH—The Neenah Merchants went into the lead in the Northern Valley league by defeating the Menasha Eagles here, 5 and 2, while the Oshkosh Cabs were taking it on the chin from a revamped Appleton team Sunday.

With seven games remaining on the season's schedule, the Neenah club has a chance to make their second appearance in the state tournament at Milwaukee this fall. Oshkosh, which has held the lead for the rest of the season, fell by the wayside and the Merchants took over the reins. Although a stiff wind made fly balls difficult to handle, the wind helped to dry off the field in time for the game, and a large crowd was on hand to witness the contest.

Neenah went into the lead in the first inning with a 2-run barrage. Two Menasha errors figured importantly in the scoring. Two more scores were added in the second inning. The fifth Neenah run came in the fifth frame when Cheslock hammered out a three base hit and came home on Jim Christofferson's timely single.

Schultz and Brown both pitched nice ball, the Neenah pitcher allowing six hits, one a double, and Brown giving up but seven bingles with one triple. Although Schultz struck out eight Menasha batters, he kept himself in trouble quite a bit of the time by handing out seven free passes. However, he had the stuff in the pinches and in the sixth inning retired the side on strikes after one run had scored. Errors on the part of his team mates kept Buster Brown in hot water much of the time. Besides pitching good ball, Brown led his team in batting by collecting two hits, one a double.

Jim Christofferson and Howard Cheslock had batting honors for Neenah with two hits apiece. One of Cheslock's was a triple. Bill Handler was robbed of a hit in the sixth inning when after poking out a powerful drive that the wind carried foul, he smacked a line drive to left field, which Beach, Menasha shortstop, leaped up and grabbed. Cheslock also made some nice catches for Neenah. Jim Christofferson, who is rapidly developing into a nice little catcher, had his throwing arm tested, and was found not wanting, as he picked off one man at third and first base during the fray to nip what might have been a batting threat for Menasha.

Next week Oshkosh will come to Neenah for a game with the Merchants, and because first place will be at stake, should be a game worth while for fans.

CABS LOSE TO APPLETON
Oshkosh—In one of the best pitching and fielding performances of the season, Appleton Giesen Taverns downed the Oshkosh Cabs, leading Northern Valley league team, here Sunday 4 and 2.

Old Rube Murphy of the Taverns turned in a 7-hit game to show the younger boys what experience and control over the ball can do. He never was in any trouble and kept the seven bingles well scattered. He was backed by stellar fielding on part of his players.

The Taverns jumped into the lead with two runs in the second inning on two errors and a hit by W. Murphy. Oshkosh came back with a tally in the last of the same frame on a hit and an error.

In the sixth stanza Des Schade of the Taverns opened with a walk and after two infield outs scored on a single by T. Murphy. Appleton counted again in the seventh inning. ## Beloit Golf Pro Places in Chicago

Alvin Krueger Posts a 303 Score but Comes in For Prize Money

CHICAGO—(AP)—Alvin Krueger, Beloit professional, placed in the money with 230-73-303 in the $10, 000 open golf tournament which was won by Gene Sarazen, who posted 200 to win the $3,000 first prize.

Krueger's mark was good for $100 in prize money.

Scores of other Wisconsin entrants:

Wilford Wehrle, Racine, 227-78-305.
Francis Gallet, Milwaukee, 236-74-310.
B. T. Neal, LaCrosse, 243-82-323.
Phil Greenwald, Madison, 225-87-312.
John H. Bird, Milwaukee, 234-83-317.

Starting yesterday's 36-hole windup, tied with George Smith of Chicago, and Harry Adams of Nashville, Tenn., at 144 strokes, Krueger, one shot over Horton Smith, Ky. Lafoon and Jim Foulis of Chicago. Sarazen worked through intermittent rain squalls to make his slender advantage last. Smith and Lafoon couldn't overhaul him, and a gallant rally by Harry Cooper, who never before had lost an official tournament at Medinah, gained him only a tie with them for second at 291.

Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N. Y., achieved a sensational 33-36-69, the best round of the tournament on his last trip, to take over the next slot at 222. Sam Sneed of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., was tied at 206, and National Open Titleholder Ralph Guldahl, wound up, even with Jimmy Hines, of Garden City, N. Y., and Bill Heinlein, of Indianapolis, at 293.

Gus Moreland, of Peoria, Ill., topped the amateur section of the field with 300 strokes.

Confirm Sale of Outagamie Mill To City Utility City Also Acquires Title To Water Power Rights

Kaukauna—Confirmation of the sale of the old Outagamie mill to the Kaukauna Electrical and Water utility was made Saturday in Judge Edgar V. Werner's circuit court at the courthouse in Appleton.

Acquisition of the property gives the municipal utility rights to 32 per cent of all water power above the Kaukauna dam, and the only water rights on the Fox river not controlled by the Green Bay and Mississippi Canal company. Purchase of the mill was made early this month at a sheriff's sale at the courthouse when the utility was high bidder for the property with an offer of $4,850 plus delinquent taxes of $80.526.

Kaukauna representatives at the confirmation Saturday were Mayor Lewis F. Nelson, H. F. Weckwerth, superintendent of the utility, Walter H. Cooper, vice chairman of the utility commission and Harry McAndrews, city attorney.

Offered to Industry

The utility will take no action to develop the water power for their own use at the present, utility commission men said today. The property will be ready to lease to any industry that should like to move into it, provided the approval of the commission, members said.

"We don't want any wildcat companies that move in quickly, take what they can out of the city, and then fold up," Cooper said, speaking for the commission.

Used as Paper Mill

The mill property consists of a rectangular building of solid stone structure, three stories high. It was long used as a pulp and paper mill and was one of the earliest developed paper mills in the city.

Many paper workers in the city started work at Patten's mill, as it was formerly known, for hiring out "skinning roll" at Patten's was one of the first jobs that boys of 14 looked for when they finished school 25 years ago.

There are more boys than girls ready for school this year, with the total 1,117 boys and 1,058 girls. Girls led in the count on the south side, while boys had a big lead on the north side. Flood Control Is Topic at Meeting Of Valley Groups

Invitations have been sent to conservation and game clubs in the district concerned by the association's activity to attend the meeting.

Plans of the organization now favor the recommendation of the United States War department of the adoption of the Ferguson plan for the control of waters in the rivers and in Lake Winnebago. Expect Sewage Disposal Plant Will Begin Operations Within 10 Days

Kaukauna—With remaining work on Kaukauna's sewage disposal plant reduced to odds and ends and minor adjustments of machinery, sewage should be flowing into the outside equipment in 10 days, Harry Heck, Greeley and Hansen's resident engineer on the job, said today.

Construction will be finished by the end of the week, Vincent Pacholski, of the P. and D. Construction company, general contractors said last week when he visited the job. Cleaning up of the outfall, or outlet for purified liquids into the river, was finished Saturday by the Ray McCarty Construction company, subcontractors. This was an important step toward the completion of the plant, since the old cul-de-sac around the outfall had to be removed before state law would permit the processing of sewage.

Want to Start Work

"The board of public works and the engineers are anxious to have operations start as quickly as possible," Heck said, "but we want to be sure that all adjustments and small jobs at the plant are finished before we put the equipment to work."

Motors on equipment have to be tested, and the large scraping arms on the clarifiers, or settling tanks, must be given final adjustment. Painting of the interior of the building is nearly finished now, but work of the nature would not hold up operation of the plant, Heck said.

Giving machinery its first coat of aluminum paint, with which it all will be covered, began this morning, as did the laying of tile floors in the office and laboratory. Office furniture and laboratory fixtures are ready to be installed as soon as the flooring is laid and the decorating finished.

Building of the manhole connection, where the interceptor sewer will be joined to the intake of the plant, will not be done until everything is set to go in the building, Heck said, as water drainage from the pipe line will impede adjustment work on some of the outside equipment.

Grinding down of basement walls is now in progress. This consists in removing the marks made by the forms when concrete was poured.

lets and earclips are made of clusters of composition beads finished with a coating resembling white-wash. They make cool looking accessories to dark frocks and are especially effective on suntanned skins.

Place a folded cloth under the dish which contains foods to be beaten. The cloth saves the table and helps keep the dish steady.
